CHAMPION MATERIAL IN AMBLER DOG RING

Toll Bar Jack Gets Title Markings in the English Bull Class.

SOLDIE QUEEN A WINNER

AMBLER, Pa., May 27.-Lansdowne Sunflower, the greyhound recently imported from England by Benjamin Lewis of Lansdowne, Pa., won the special for the best dog or bitch in the annual show held by the Gwynedd Valley Kennel Club here to-day. Sunflower also gained enough legs on the Caldwell trophy for it to become the absolute property of Mr. Lewis, who had won legs of that trophy on two other occasions with other

The Senator Vare trophy, also won by Lewis entries the last two years, went to Sunflower to-day. This remarkable greyhound came out for the first time n this country at the last Philadelphia show, where she made a hit with those who know a good specimen of this breed. She seems to be destined to fulfil all of the predictions made for her at that time.

A surprise was handed to the local Pomeranian breeders when Mrs. O. S. Lakeland's recently purchased General known and prominent winner Banner Sable Laddie. This dog had won a number of prizes at matches held in New York recently, but the first time he came out at an A. K. C. show where the competition was keen was to-day and he lived up to his English record, when he beat the field pitted against him.

Airedale terriers were one of the best lot of dogs on hand, and as is the rule at all shows held in this vicinity they at all shows held in this vicinity they at all shows held in this vicinity they made the largest classes. W. E. Baker. Jr., of New York was the judge, and he said that he was greatly impressed with the quality of the exhibits, and especially the pupples, of which there were several of great promise.

In the bitch puppy class two young-sters came out that have the earmarks of future queens of their breed. It was a close rub between them for the blue, the judge finally selecting A. H. Crock-et's Goldie Queen first, with R. R. Blank's Sister Susie II, the runnerup. In winners' dogs Andrew McCrea's Abrecorn Gold Edge won, while the puppy winner. Lord Wollaton, shown by

Good English Bulldogs.

George Low had a representative lot of English buildogs to pass judgment on. He selected John E. Horrax's Toll Bar Jack as the best and by doing so gave this dog the number of points necessary to enable it to claim a championship title. It was Jack's fifth consecutive win in this country and he has now attained a championship without meeting a reverse. Reserve to Jack was Thomas Parvin's newly imported Magnet Dandy Penfold, about as massive an animal as ever seen in the breed. It has a good headning and the second headpiece and the heaviest bone imagina-ble, but lost in length of back. In bitches James S. Bechtold's Peggy won with little to spare from John Davies's

Roseville Britannia.

A nice field of Boston terriers was shown. In dogs John Keegan's The Whistler won, getting two more cham-pionship points; more than enough to give him a title, but for the fact that he needs just one three point win, Re-serve to The Whistler was a puppy Peter Noodles II., owned by Robert Hughes, which gives every indication of developwhich gives every indication of developing into a first flighter.

In bitches several nice pupples and novices were shown. Notable among these was the Ravenroyd Kennel's Ravenroyd Romance, a quality youngster which went from first puppy to reserve winner and won the special for the best puppy of its breed in the show. Winners bitches prize was taken by Mrs. M. E. Brecht's Easenatar, a real good light. Brecht's Fascinator, a real good light-

Mrs. A. McClure Halley won everything offered in Pekingese. Pao Lung of Lienrud was winners dogs and Ouena of Lienrud best of the opposite sex. Re-serve to Ouena was a good young bitch named Sun Flo and owned by Thomas E. Hudson. It was a bit timid in the ring and its chances were injured.

Mrs. Frank T. Clarke, scheduled to judge the Pekingese, was absent and this breed was taken by John Sinnott of Philadelphia, who substituted for Mrs. Clarke in the breeds assigned to her.

Debutante Terrier Wins.

Mrs. William C. Thompson brought out new importation, the Yorkshire terrier Gatenby's Armley Little Dick, and this debutante to the American show ring was given winners honor.

About a dozen French buildogs made close competition. In dogs two of the finest youngsters in the country fought a close battle for supremacy. They were Hugh Jackson's Gamins Rival, Jr., and Frederic Poffet's La France Model's Rival, placed as named. There is little se between them, but the winner scored a bit in development, has a won derful head with a wide muzzle an plenty of layback and cushion. a bit heavier in bone and thicker through the chest and a trifle lower to ground and wider in brisket. A pleasing and unusual innovation was that of allowing exhibitors to leave the grounds as soon as the judging of their classes was over. This made it possible for New York and out of town exhibitors to get early trains for home and there was none of the confusion and delay contingent upon the breaking up of the average show

Good English Balldogs. dog, and the high praise bestowed upon John Proctor by him is deserved praise for a great dog. Hochwalt says:

Of all the dogs which have occupied the limelight of the field trial world in recent years none stands out more prominently than the great pointer, John Proctor, but he has not come by his fame lightly and he deserves all the notoriety that is being accorded him. Beginning his field trial career four years ago his campaign was one series of brilliant successes, during series of brilliant successes, during which time he was placed twenty-three times, winning in all nearly $3,000 in money and the title of champion four times. No other dog in field trials has ever equalled this record nor is another likely to do so for many years to come.

John Proctor is in many ways John Proctor is in many ways a prodigy—a dog among a thousand. His first championship was won in September, 1913, when, in a field of thirteen of the best setters and pointers, he carried away the All-America title which crowned him chicken chan pion, and stamped him one of the best dogs on prairie chickens that has ever dogs on prairie chickens that has ever been seen on the great plains of the Northwest. The remarkable thing about John Proctor is that he is equally good on any kind of upland game, and he handles quait as well as he does the great bird of the prairies. Not many dogs are of such calibre. Spot's Rip Rap, McKinley and Cowley's Rodfield's Pride were considered great chicken doss, but they sidered great chicken dogs, but they were lesser lights when it came to the quails of the South. This unusual pointer, however, ran with equal success in the trials of Dixie Land. and piled up victory after victory until the season just past, when he began his capaign at Denbigh, N. D. winning for a second time the title chicken champion, and then comof chicken champion, and then com-ing down the circuit he acquired one great win after another, capping the climax when he won the most im-portant event of them all—the na-tional championship at Grand Junc-Tennessee, January, 1916. he followed up the very next week by winning the national free for all championship and the purse of $1.500

Calhoun, Ala.
There were three championships run during the season of 1915 and 1916 and John Proctor won every one of them. This trio of wins, in addition to the title he acquired in 1913, makes him a quadruple champion. It is a wonderful record for a wonderful dos. Consequently it is nothing out of the ordinary that those interested in field trials are going into ecstasles over

Champion John Proctor was bred and is owned by A. L. Curtis of Bel-ton, Texas. It is a great thing to own a field trial winner, a still greater to breed one; but to breed and own a quadruple champion is something is unusual that no one expects to ever see the feat repeated. rather large white and lemon in color, quite handsome in general outline and while he might not be a bench show dog in the real sense of the word his general conformation would nost any judge take a second look at

He is by the well known pointer sire, Fishel's Frank, out of a daugh-ter of Alford's John. Fishel's Frank, by the way, has sired two national champions and a number of other well known winners, but this pointer from Texas is the greatest of all his sons. Old Fishel's Frank is now dead but his fame will last as long as bird dogs are bred if for no other reason than that his son, John Protor, achieved such great things in the realm of field trials.

While Mr. Downs has been interested in raising chows for a number of years, lack of space has limited the scope of his *reeding operations.* At enew place on Long Island he will have four seres of ground to be converted into acres of the ground to acres of ground to be converted into acres of ground to be Alva Rosenberg to Judge in Jersey.
